My little sister likes to try my shoes, to strut in them, admire her spindle-thin twelve-year-old legs in this season's styles. She says they fit her perfectly, but wobbles on their high heels, they're hard to balance. I like to watch my little sister playing hopscotch, admire the neat hops-and-skips of her, their quick peck, nevermissing their mark, not overstepping the line. A guide to the 14 poems in the poetry collection 'Poems Deep and Dangerous' which can be chosen by students of the Cambridge IGCSE Literature specification (0486) 'Poem For My Sister' by Liz Lochhead | Teaching Resources In the 'Poem for My Sister' Liz Lochhead uses shoes and feet as a metaphor for life and experiences. 'My little sister likes to try my shoes' brings out the well known saying 'put yourself in someone else's shoes' meaning in their place. This shows that her sister likes to try out being in the same position as Lochhead; as an adult. Poem for My Sister - Literature To summarize the poem "My Sister" by Liz Lochhead, my little twelve years old sister loves to play hopscotch wearing my shoes too big for her feet. Although it's so admiring to know how perfect she has mastered the game in such oversized shoes but I tries to warn her how foolish and risky is it trying to live in any person's shoes.
