This book offers analysis of articulation of consumer culture and modernity in everyday lives of people in a transnational framework.

It pursues three broad themes: lifestyle choices and construction of modern identities; fashion and advertising; and

subaltern concerns and moral subjectivities. It juxtaposes empirical studies with theoretical traditions in addressing questions such as: How do people imagine modernity and identity in consumer culture? What does modernity or 'being modern' mean to people in different societies? Are modernity and tradition antithetical to or develop an interface with each other? The chapters in the book trace manifestations and trajectories of consumer culture and modernity as they connect to develop a sense of renewed identity.

 The book will help readers to discover the meaning of inner peace and happiness by living the consciousness that has been meticulously explained in the book. The book explains various techniques of transcending the separate self- the mind and body combination, based on experiential knowledge of Kashmiri mystics and the followers of the Shaivite School of the philosophy of Kashmir. The author, however, cautions us to the dangers of downplaying the role of religions or form, in the name of mysticism, sold to many, eager for spiritual experience. An intense spiritual and life-changing book.

The first thorough assessment of the field of comparative religion in forty years, this groundbreaking volume surmounts the seemingly intractable division between postmodern scholars who reject the comparative endeavor and those who affirm it. The contributors demonstrate that a broader vision of religion, involving different scales of comparison for different purposes, is both justifiable and necessary. A Magic Still Dwells brings together leading historians of religions from a wide range of backgrounds and vantage points, and draws from traditions as diverse as Indo-European mythology, ancient Greek religion, Judaism, Buddhism, Ndembu ritual, and the spectrum of religions practiced in America. The contributors take seriously the postmodern critique, explain its impact on their work, uphold or reject various premises, and in several cases demonstrate new comparative approaches.

Together, the essays represent a state-of-the-art assessment of current issues in the comparative study of religion. An Introduction to Probability and Statistics John Wiley & Sons A young boy applies lipstick on his lips as his mother looks on and grapples with her son's sexuality. A wife negotiates with the 'other woman' and a love child after her diplomat husband's violent death. A middle-aged woman 'disappears' while answering her inner calling. The Second Wife & Other Stories deals with love, war, caste and class divides. The stories in this collection are contemporary yet timeless. They ask probing questions on gender issues, explore queer relationships, and boldly re-tell the epics. The woman and her story remain the focal point as the author delves deep into women's lives and raises provocative questions. This book is an invitation to the reader not to get carried away by the striking ideas of 'renunciation' and 'purity' which dominate the academic literature on

India, but to consider them alongside the equally important notions of 'domesticity' and 'auspiciousness'. The volume constitutes a reading of Hindu tradition as a rich and sensible philosophy of life - what T. N. Madan calls 'a cultivation of moral sensibility' - one based on domesticity (householder status as opposed to, and prior to, renouncer status), plenitude (goals of the good life), detachment or transcendence (as a way of dealing with adversity), and bringing desires under cultural control. The Epilogue briefly draws attention to the problems of modernity as cultural conceptions of the good life have shifted, causing Hindus to search anew for their sense of self and means of social reorientation.
