Aug 17, 2009 Michael rated it liked it. It is always great to get a kid hooked on a series, but so much better to hook them on a series that has both fiction and nonfiction books. We don't give nonfiction enough credit, nor do we honor the fact that so many boys want to connect their reading with real life. Well ... Ghosts (Magic Tree House Research Guide, #20) The Magic Tree House Research Guides are conversational nonfiction that could be paired with books from the Magic Tree House series. These are great choices for kids looking for recreational reading. The books include an index, a list of further resources (including books, websites, and more), and tips for kids doing their own research. Space (Magic Tree House Research Guide, #6) by Will Osborne This was surprisingly informative for being a Magic Tree House Research Guide. It was the base of my Ancient Egypt obsession, providing me with what I needed to learn more. It's not really about mummies and pyramids than it is about the ancient Egyptian culture and lifestyle. It provided kids with an excellent look into a time period somewhat forgotten in history. And while there aren't really ... Mummies and Pyramids (Magic Tree House Research Guide, #3) The Magic Tree House series is an engaging, though-provoking set of books for young readers. Several of the fictional texts are paired with "Fact Trackers," relaying the true story of the events that the fictional text refers to.
