Surreal Moments : A Collection of Beautiful Poems Kogan Page Publishers

About the Book:

'Poetry is when an emotion has found its thought and the thought has found words' - Robert Frost. It is not without a reason that humans call the best of everything 'poetry'. In the famous romance novel, The Notebook by Nicholas Sparks, the hero calls his lover a 'living poem'. Likewise, our best literature (irrespective of its form), movies, arts, places, food, and even wine is called 'poetic'. No matter how scientifically advanced or technologically sophisticated we get, humans will always read and write poetry to express their emotions and feelings. We don't read and write poetry because it's fancy. We read and write poetry because we are members of the human race filled with passion. Medicine, law, business, and engineering are noble pursuits necessary to sustain life. Poetry, beauty, romance and love make this life worth living. With immense pride and joy that the entire team at StoryMirror selected, edited, compiled, designed, printed and published this beautiful collection of poems, "Surreal Moments". The poets who co-authored this anthology come from different walks of life. Their age, gender, profession, qualification, theme and genre might differ, but all of them have brought their emotions, imagination, passion and life experiences to these poems. These poems are sure to strike a chord, touch your heart and soothe your soul. Hope you have a great reading experience!

When masquerades have grown so ingrained in our flesh that no matter how hard we try to rub it off, we can't, it has become a part of our skin and all we are left with at the end is scars and bruises that run along our shadows. The Spectrum of Chaos is a book that strives to convey even the tiniest of human emotions. We mortals are sick of suffocating our emotions in a box; it's time to let them out and accept ourselves as the mess we are. This book depicts all of their joys, sorrows, and rages.

BOOKSQUIRREL

This volume will mark a new trend in dealing with women's varied experiences of life: individual introductions situate the narrator in a context - and then her voice takes over, with no intervention from the editors (except to provide footnotes wherever necessary). The personal narrative — be it an autobiography, a letter or a diary — has come to be recognised as an acceptable data source in history and social science. Literary critics and students of literature too find considerable use in reading the personal writings of poets, fiction and crime writers. In this book, readings of personal narratives help in painting various images of lives that we can only know at second hand. The mélange includes memoirs, published articles, 'portraits from memory', a collection of essays, and an oral interview. In all, the self was the focus. The writings of Sailabala, Li Gotami, and Shakuntala go beyond a recounting of their lives and deal with spiritual and travel experiences. Three of the essays are excerpts from published autobiographies — Sarala Devi Chaudhurani's Jeevaner Jharapata (Life's Fallen Leaves), Kalpana Dutt's Reminiscences and Sailabala Das's A Look Before and After. Vidyagauri Nilkanth's writings are essays and a selection of amazingly candid letters exchanged with her husband. Anasuya Sarabahi's is an interview in Gujarati with niece Gira and Monica's a selection from an unpublished memoir. Li Gotami, whose original name was Ruty Petit, travelled to Manasarovar, and a few of the magazine articles on this amazing journey have been reproduced here. Whichever form a woman chooses, writing about her self, is emancipatory; she may be a person who has so far received little attention from the family or the world. Or she may be one who is a well-known public figure – yet little is known about her childhood. So she writes about many selves – life is not about one coherent self but rather one of many lives and experiences. In other words, Words hold more power than anything else in the world ever can. They can wage or stop wars, influence millions in a few seconds and create emotions from scratch that you didn't even know existed. "Mishran " is an anthology which would have a similar impact on the readers. We've gathered authors, writers and poets from all over India to create some genuine and pure literature, which won't just touch but get instilled in people's hearts. Topics such as "love" and "death" were approached and written on, by all of our writers in Hindi as well as in English. The writers' views on the respective topics allow people to look at the ideas from all possible angles. It is a combined work of various writing styles and is bilingual, which makes it really interesting as the poems or write-ups aren't in a single tone, hence, not making it monotonous for the readers. It is a blend of emotions which will surely palpitate your heart and make you feel emotions that you might or might not have felt before. We hope to give the people the exact words that will excite their emotions immensely.
