"This collection
contains two plays by Gao Xingjian, winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature 2000.

Escape was written in 1989 in the wake of the June 4 Student Movement in Tiananmen Square in Beijing. With the publication of the play, Gao was expelled from the Chinese Communist Party,

dismissed from his state appointment and
and his house in Beijing confiscated.
Perhaps because of
this controversy,
Escape has become the most performed of all of Gao's plays: it has been staged in Sweden, Germany,
Belgium, France,
Poland, Japan, Ivory Coast, Tunisia, and Canada. Wherever it was staged, it was given a locally relevant intepretation and was well received, which lends credence to Gao's claim of the universality of the play he describes as the tragedy of modern man. The Man Who Questions Death is the latest of Gao's plays. It is also one of the most exciting and powerful."--Jacket.

This volume contains the papers and abstracts of the posters given at the symposium on Long-term Changes in Coastal Benthic Communities organized by the Commission of the European Communities in Brussels, Belgium from 9 till 12 December 1985. The organization of this symposium came to conclude five years of activities in the COST 647 project on Coastal Benthic Ecology, the rationale of which is explained in the foreword by B. F. Keegan. The importance of this volume is that for the first time special attention is given to long-term data series of relevant biological variables collected in different marine benthic habitats. Many of the data presented here are the result of years of careful data collection by some of the leading scientists in the field of benthic ecology. Some of the series, such as the Macoma balthica data from the Wadden Sea or the macrofauna data from Loch Linnhe, to name just those two, are already classics in the marine biological literature. Other data were collected in the framework of a monitoring programme and are now analyzed for the first time in the different perspective of the COST 647 project. Several papers are from related fields where they represent well known case studies; they were chosen in order to see how problems have been tackled elsewhere. Index-catalogue of the Library of the Surgeon-general's Office, United States Army Рипол

Fjords are deep, glacially carved estuaries that are peculiar to certain coastlines, and have several characteristics that distinguish them from shallower embayments. At higher latitudes they indent the western coastlines of Scandinavia, North and South America, and New Zealand. They are also a common feature of much of the arctic coastline. The papers contained in this volume were presented at a workshop funded by the NATO Advanced Studies Institute in Victoria, British Columbia. It may seem curious to the reader that this special class of estuaries should have attracted an international gathering of oceanographers from several different disciplines. The reason for this interest stems from both practical and scientific considerations. On the one hand, fjords are a feature common to the coastlines of several countries that depend heavily on the oceans for communication, fisheries and other resources. The impact of man's activities on these coasts has created a demand for new knowledge of the physical, biological and chemical aspects of fjords. Sometimes man's influence on the ocean is intentional as, for example, in the artificial control of ice cover; often it is the more insidious build-up of toxic wastes that is of concern. These problems are particularly acute where the conflicting demands of fisheries, industrial development and recreation meet in a single fjord; and indeed, this is a common occurrence along several of the fjords in Scandinavia and Canada.

This volume contains the Proceedings of the 50th Colloquium Biblicum Lovaniense: the 40 contributions, written in English, French and German, focus on the canons of the Old and New Testament as well as those of the Bible as a whole. The theme is studied from a variety of historical, hermeneutical and biblical-theological points of view. Several contributions discuss the process that resulted in the canonical status of certain writings, or groups of writings, in particular, such as the Book of Psalms, Ezekiel, the Wisdom of Ben Sira, the Pauline corpus, Acts and the gospels.
