The French Review P2D

La conclusion de Found, l'histoire de Gwen et JC en deux tomes, suite de Free Me, par Laureline Paige, auteure de best-sellers au classement du New York Times. Je suis venue au Sky Launch pour tout recommencer, loin des horreurs de mon passé. Les circonstances qui m'ont amenée ici n'étaient pas idéales, mais je me suis liée d'amitié avec Alayna et Hudson Pierce, et ma famille a guéri comme je ne l'aurais jamais cru possible. Avec eux dans mon entourage proche, je ne me suis jamais sentie plus en confiance. Mais pour tout recommencer à zéro, il faut savoir lâcher prise. Et il y a certaines choses que je ne veux pas abandonner – JC, par exemple, l'homme qui m'a appris à me libérer. L'homme que je n'étais pas censée aimer. L'homme que je ne veux pas perdre. Je suis en sécurité dans ma vie désormais. Les menaces du passé sont devenues moins inquiétantes et je me retrouve face à un choix : tourner la page ou me raccrocher à l'espoir que JC m'aime suffisamment pour venir me retrouver.

These two volumes offer a selection of the papers held at the conference of the International Association for Dialogue Analysis (IADA) in 2003. Volume I contains 38 articles devoted to dialogue and the phenomenon of 'dialogicity' in literature, ranging from antiquity to a large number of modern languages and literatures. The conversation-analytic approaches drawn upon are notable for their methodological diversity. This is also true of the 32 articles in Volume II. The main focus here is on present-day types of dialogue in the new electronic media and their 'traditional' counterparts (press, radio, television, film). The examples are taken from various countries, and they are discussed in terms of the intercultural, semiotic, translatorial, and general pragmatic issues they pose.

Je m'appelle Duty Sunay, mon monde a été contaminé. Appréhension, peur, tyrannie, il est chargé de blessures, d'atteintes et d'offenses. Mon âme souffrante est cernée par des pensées angoissantes, interminables, des regards foudroyants, une noirceur indélébile. Mes yeux sont remplis de haine, mon cœur est en violence permanente. Je suis l'étrangère misanthrope, mes pics de détresse affolent, mon allure troublante est source de moqueries. Seuls mes rêves me donnent de l'espoir, ils sont ma vie, un aller sans retour. La rage incommensurable qui enveloppe tout mon être me donne cette force étrangement incroyable d'avancer. Car ils ont conduit ma vie vers un ciel ombragé, vers un vide infini. Ils osent maintenant occuper mon présent au passage d'une joie fugace. Alors, je les tuerais...tous !

Chacun connaît Jules Maigret, le commissaire Maigret, qu'à force de talent Georges Simenon rend vivant, capable de boire et de manger au point de nous mettre l'eau à la bouche. Car Maigret sans la table n'est plus Maigret... Maigret c'est un gourmand, un gourmet. C'est un nez délicat, un palais sensible, une vraie mémoire gustative... Tout cela nous est révélé par l'enquête impressionnante menée par Jacques Sacré qui, au fil des 15.000 pages qui donnent vie à Maigret, a relevé, noté, classé les citations évoquant repas et boissons... À déguster. L'ouvrage est illustré par des reproductions d'œuvres d'André Coppens, extraites de l'exposition « Maigret passe à table », et des dessins réalisés par des étudiants de StLuc, MM.Jean-Charles Delporte et Gêrôme Guidolin, à l'occasion de l'exposition « Simenon en ses quartiers ».

Long repressed following the collapse of empire, memories of the French colonial experience have recently gained unprecedented visibility. In popular culture, scholarly research, personal memoirs, public commemorations, and new ethnicities associated with the settlement of postcolonial immigrant minorities, the legacy of colonialism is now more apparent in France than at any time in the past. How is this upsurge of interest in the colonial past to be explained? Does the commemoration of empire necessarily imply glorification or condemnation? To what extent have previously marginalized voices succeeded in making themselves heard in new narratives of empire? While veils of secrecy have been lifted, what taboos still remain and why? These are among the questions addressed by an international team of leading researchers in this interdisciplinary volume, which will interest scholars in a wide range of disciplines including French studies, history, literature, cultural studies, and anthropology.

The linguistic domains of business and commerce are especially affected by the economic and communicative globalization. Since language use in these domains has an impact on the use of a language in other domains, the future development of the European languages will not mainly depend on language-internal processes, but will increasingly be influenced by the use of English as the international vehicular language. The present development in Europe is discussed in several overview articles and a series of reports on the specific situation in various European countries. In addition, the Lisbon Resolution of EFNIL, pointing at the advantages of multilingualism in international business, is presented in 26 languages including the 23 official languages of the European Union. It calls the EU and its members to acknowledge languages as key factors for economic success, also from the perspective of consumers and workers.

In an era of commemoration, France's Colonial Legacies contributes to the debates taking place in France about the place of empire in the contemporary life of the nation, debates that have been underway since the 1990s and that now reach across public life and society with manifestations in the French parliament, media and universities. France's empire and the gradual process of its loss is one of the defining narratives of the contemporary nation, contributing to the construction of its image both on the international stage and at home. While certain intellectuals present the imperial period as an historical irrelevance that ended in the years following the Second World War, the contested legacies of France's colonies continue to influence the development of French society in the view of scholars of the postcolonial. This volume surveys the memorial practices and discourses that are played out in a range of arenas, drawing on the expertise of researchers working in the fields of politics, media, cultural studies, literature and film to offer a wide-ranging picture of remembrance in contemporary France. Introduction: The Postcolonial Nation, Fiona Barclay Part One: Narrative Gaps 1. Amnesia about Anglophone Africa: France's Rhodesian mind-set, its manifestations and its legacies, 1947-58, Joanna Warson 2. From 'écrivains coloniaux' to écrivains de 'langue française': strata of un/acknowledged memories, Gabrielle Parker Part Two: The Algerian War, Fifty Years On 3. Conflicting memories: modernisation, colonialism and the Algerian war appelés in Cinq colonnes à la une, Iain Mossman 4. Derrida's virtual space of spectrality: cinematic haunting and the law in Mon Colonel (Herbiet, 2006), Fiona Barclay 5. 'Le devoir de mémoire': the poetics and politics of cultural memory in Assia Djebar's Le Blanc de l'Algérie, Jennifer Mullen 6. (Un)packing the suitcases: postcolonial memory and iconography, William Kidd Part Three: The Transnational Family 7. Interrogating the transnational family: memory, identity and cultural bilingualism in Sous la clarté de la lune (Traoré, 2004), Zélie Asava 8. Continuity and discontinuity in the family: looking beyond the post-colonial in Il y a longtemps que je t'aime (Claudel, 2008), Fiona Handyside Part Four: Contemporary Commemorations 9. The Dictionary of Louisiana French (DLF) provides the richest inventory of French vocabulary in Louisiana and reflects precisely the speech of the period from 1930 to the present. This dictionary describes the current usage of French-speaking peoples in the five broad regions of South Louisiana: the coastal marshes, the banks of the Mississippi River, the central area, the north, and the western prairie. Data were collected during interviews from at least five persons in each of twenty-four areas in these regions. In addition to the data collected from fieldwork, the dictionary contains material compiled from existing lexical inventories, from texts published after 1930, and from archival recordings. The new authoritative resource, the DLF not only contains the largest number of words and expressions but also provides the most complete information available for each entry. Entries include the word in the conventional French spelling, the pronunciation (including attested variants), the part of speech classification, the English equivalent, and the word's use in common phrases. The DLF features a wealth of illustrative examples derived from fieldwork and textual sources and identification of the parish where the entry was collected or the source from which it was compiled. An English-to-Louisiana French index enables readers to find out how particular notions would be expressed in la Louisiane .
