Nicoll's History, which tells the story of English drama from the reopening of the theatres at the time of the Restoration right through to the end of the Victorian period, was viewed by Notes and Queries (1952) as 'a great work of exploration, a detailed guide to the untrodden acres of our dramatic history, hitherto largely ignored as barren and devoid of interest'.

 Parle plus bas, si c'est d'amour est un dictionnaire de citations tirées des pièces et des poèmes de Shakespeare. D' « Ambition » à « Vieillesse », voici les pensées d'un des plus grands génies de la littérature mondiale sur tous les sujets de la vie humaine. Valables en 1616, ces pensées n'ont rien perdu de leur force en 2016. Cette anthologie thématique donne ainsi un aperçu du génie universel de Shakespeare. Aucune dimension de l'existence n'échappe à son interrogation : l'amour, la mort, le pouvoir, la justice... On y trouvera jusqu'à des conseils pratiques : « Des repas troublés font de mauvaises digestions » (Comédie des erreurs) ! Les très grandes sentences du dramaturge seront là (« Être ou ne pas être, telle est la question », Hamlet), mais également des pensées plus inattendues (« Mes jours-salade sont finis », Antoine et Cléopâtre), des insultes truculentes (« Boyau à cervelle de boue ! », Henry IV) et des maximes à la sagesse profonde et modeste (« Les hommes sont des hommes, les meilleurs oublient parfois », Othello). On y retrouva également ses personnages les plus connus, Hamlet, Othello, Lady Macbeth, et d'autres, injustement méconnus : qui se souvient de Rosaline, le premier amour de Roméo ? Ces personnages, « faits de l'étoffe dont les rêves sont faits » (La Tempête) nous livrent une vision du monde ample, généreuse, parfois violente, toujours enthousiasmante, qui témoigne de la profondeur de vue du grand Shakespeare. N'est-ce pas lui qui affirme par la bouche du devin d'Antoine et Cléopâtre : « Dans le livre infini des secrets de la nature, je sais lire un peu » ? L'anthologie a été réalisée par Julian Michelet, né en 1990, normalien et agrégé de Lettres classiques.

The Sentiment of Spending Univ. Press of Mississippi

This collection is a study of African literature framed by the central, and multi-faceted, idea of 'mother' - motherland, mothertongue, motherwit, motherhood, mothering - looking at the paradoxical location of (m)other as both central and marginal. Whilst the volume stands as a sustained feminist analysis, it engages feminist theory itself by showing how issues in feminism are, in African literature, recast in different and complex ways.

Les bains de Diane, ou, Le triomphe de l'amour Odile Jacob Avoir 20 ans et aimer un prisonnier allemand. Avoir 20 ans et enseigner en 1946 dans une Allemagne occupée par les Alliés. Avoir 20 ans et penser à son avenir dans un pays en ruine, couvert d'opprobre. C'est ce que vit Annie qui n'avait jamais quitté son village sarthois et qui sur un coup de foudre se rend à Spire, dans le Palatinat sous occupation française. Un premier amour au bord du Rhin quand la population peine à manger et que l'armée française se conduit en armée d'occupation est une épreuve que seule une jeune fille intrépide et amoureuse peut se risquer à vivre. Catherine Paysan évoque cette passion de l'après-guerre dans un pays en difficile reconstruction, avec ce talent si singulier à rendre le poids de l'Histoire et la complexité des sentiments. L'Amour là-bas en Allemagne a reçu le prix littéraire de la Gendarmerie nationale 2007.

Songs of the University of Chicago Taylor & Francis

The nineteenth century saw a fundamental change in the practice and psychology of shopping with the appearance of the department store: La Samaritaine in Paris (1869), Macy's in New York (1858) and Harrods in London (1849) were early representations of Western consumer culture. The Sentiment of Spending examines this shift first on a socio-historic level and then through the literary lens of some of the century's most vital authors, the exponents of Naturalism - Emile Zola, Guy de Maupassant, and Jori-Karl Huysmans - as well as the fascinating, if rarely studied, Rachilde. In the works discussed, the characters reveal through their interpersonal, sexual, and sentimental relationships the penetrating effects of a consumerist culture. As both a literary and social analysis, this book also addresses the moral question inherent in a world where shopping and sentiment are so inextricably intertwined. The Sentiment of Spending provides profound insights into some essential texts, and is an engaging read for anyone with an interest in French literature and its reflection of our society.

L'Amour là-bas en Allemagne

Winner of the International Book Award from International Association for the Study of Popular Music (2003) The practice of singing and songwriting in France during the Great War provides an intriguing tool for the exploration of the French cultural politics of the epoch. Responding to the dearth of cultural studies of the First World War, Regina Sweeney's unique cross-disciplinary study illuminates many of the hitherto unexplored corners of an era that many historians consider to exhibit a break with recognizable trends. In early twentieth century Europe, singing was considered a part of education integral to the formation of good citizens. Singing was especially important to the French, for whom it was historically associated with authenticity of feeling and purity of character, and thereby with the very roots of French democracy; it was particularly associated with the image of France as a victorious nation. But as Sweeney shows, different performances of the same patriotic song could carry vastly different meanings. By focusing on singing, Sweeney is able to provide a more nuanced reading of French Great War cultures than ever before, and to show that cultures previously held to be exclusive — those of the home front and the Western front, for example — existed in dialectical tension and were themselves far from homogenous.
