_____ A DRAMATIC FICTIONAL PORTRAIT OF THE US-MEXICO
BORDER, MIGRATION, AND ITS IMPACT ON PEOPLE'S LIVES

_____ Through this network of nine personal stories, Carlos Fuentes sets out to explain Mexico and America to each other – and to the rest of the world. He presents a dramatic fictional portrait of the relationship between the United States and Mexico, as played out in a Mexican dynasty led by a powerful Mexican oligarch with complex ties north of the border. It is the story of Mexican families who send their sons north to provide for whole villages with dollars and of Mexican tycoons who exploit their own people. Young Jose Francisco grows up in Texas, determined to write about the border world – the immigrants and illegals, Mexican poverty and Yankee prosperity – stories to break the stand-off silence with a victory shout, to shatter at last the crystal frontier.

The general perception that a good command of English is enough to gain access and to be successful in higher education hides the complexity of learning and teaching in multilingual environments, and this book shows that all higher education environments are multilingual to some extent. Strategies like translation, interpreting and switching from one language to another not only support learning but also build competence for multilingual professional environments. Whether institutions focus on widening access to minoritised communities or whether they want to attract more international students, the book argues that a multilingual pedagogy is needed to improve student access and success. Building on work by Nancy Hornberger, Colin Baker and Ofelia García, the book extends strategies and techniques from bilingual education at school level to multilingual higher education.

"Tells a compelling story about an almost unknown body of work--Argentine women's travel narratives--and also provokes the reader to think more deeply about the intersection between learning about one's country and learning about oneself."-- Debra A. Castillo, Stephen H. Weiss Presidential Fellow, Cornell University, and author of Easy Women: Sex and Gender in Modern Mexican Fiction In this collection of writings by women both inside and outside of Argentina, Mónica Szurmuk has unearthed a rich and delightful tradition of travel writing. The selections, recorded from the period 1850-1930, include travelogues by European and North American women who visited Argentina alongside pieces by Argentinean women who describe trips to the United States, Europe, the Middle East, and the interior of their own country. The pieces show that women writers in colonized and colonizing countries share literary and ideological perspectives and discuss race and gender in similar ways, often using the form of travel writing to discuss highly charged political issues. In addition to short introductions to each text and author, Szurmuk describes how women's texts were co-opted to form an image of white women as models of nationhood that need to be protected and sheltered. She also examines the history of travel writing alongside the participation of women in public life, population policies, and the development of the public school system, and she offers enlightening conclusions about the nature of travel writing as a literary genre. Traumatized by memories of his war-ravaged country, and with his son and daughter-in-law dead, Monsieur Linh travels to a foreign land to bring the child in his arms to safety. The other refugees in the detention center are unsure how to help the old man; his caseworkers are compassionate, but overworked. Monsieur Linh struggles beneath the weight of his sorrow, and becomes increasingly bewildered and isolated in this unfamiliar, fast-moving town. And then he encounters Monsieur Bark. They do not speak each other's language, but Monsieur Bark is sympathetic to the foreigner's need to care for the child. Recently widowed and equally alone, he is eager to talk, and Monsieur Linh knows how to listen. The two men share their solitude, and find friendship in an unlikely dialogue between two very different cultures. Monsieur Linh and His Child is a remarkable novel with an extraordinary twist, a subtle portrait of friendship and a dialogue between two cultures.

Die vorliegende Arbeit beginnt mit einem theoretischen Teil, in dem verschiedene Aspekte der Bildkompetenz, Bildtypen und Bildfunktionen dargestellt werden. Als Grundlage für die Untersuchung wurden vier Spanischlehrwerke ausgewählt. Es werden die Auswahlkriterien für die Lehrwerke erläutert und die Lehrwerke präsentiert. Anschließend werden in einer quantitativen Analyse die Bildtypen und Bildfunktionen in den Lehrwerken erfasst und die Ergebnisse verglichen. In der qualitativen Analyse soll anhand von drei ausgewählter Schwerpunkten überprüft werden, wie Bilder eingesetzt werden und inwiefern dies theoretisch begründet und sinnvoll geschieht. Mit den ersten beiden Schwerpunkten wird der kulturelle dem bildästhetischen Zugang zu Bildern gegenübergestellt. Als drittes werden vier Typen vorgestellt, die zeigen, wie Bilder im Kontext der Grammatikvermittlung verwendet werden. Abschließend soll auf Grundlage der Ergebnisse ein Ausblick und Verbesserungsvorschläge für zukünftige Lehrwerke gegeben werden.

Im Zuge der Kompetenzorientierung ist die Relevanz der sprachlichen Mittel – Aussprache, Wortschatz, Morphosyntax – als Voraussetzungen für fremdsprachliche kommunikative Kompetenz vor allem in der deutschen Fremdsprachendidaktik mitunter aus dem Blick geraten. Es scheint daher an der Zeit, ein neuerliches Augenmerk auf die Funktion und Bedeutung der sprachlichen Mittel für eine effiziente Ausbildung der interkulturellen kommunikativen Handlungsfähigkeit zu richten. Diese Aspekte hat die hier in Auswahl publizierte Sektion des XXXIV. Deutschen Romanistentags in Mannheim untersucht.

Seminar paper from the year 2015 in the subject Didactics - Common Didactics, Educational Objectives, Methods, grade: 1,3, University of Trier, language: English, abstract: Within the framework of this term paper, it will be explained, according to Wolfgang Klafki, what education-theoretical didactics is and what forms of education exist. The question of the meaning of categorical education and the function of didactic analysis will also be explored. Before theories and models of didactics can be explained and contexts understood, a basic understanding of what didactics is in the first place and which factors play a role here must first be established. The question of the meaning of didactics is not easy to answer. The word has its origins in the Greek "didáskein", which translates as "to teach" and "to instruct" or "to learn" and "to be taught". Already here it becomes clear that two elementary processes are interrelated and complement each other, which has not changed until today. Thus didactics is "the theory and practice of learning and teaching". The focus is on the interaction between teachers and learners. Didactics should therefore be a support for mutual interaction between teachers and learners. It is a science of action that is intended to provide teachers with a practice-oriented way of acting. During the 20th century, educationalists such as Erich Weniger, Paul Heimann and especially Wolfgang Klafki (born 1927), who is considered the "father" of didactics, tried to narrow down and define the term in order to finally develop educational theoretical foundations and didactic theories and models.

Narrative Prosthesis: Disability and the Dependencies of Discourse develops a narrative theory of the pervasive use of disability as a device of characterization in literature and film. It argues that, while other marginalized identities have suffered cultural exclusion due to a dearth of images reflecting their experience, the marginality of disabled people has occurred in the midst of the perpetual circulation of images of disability in print and visual media. The manuscript's six chapters offer comparative readings of key texts in the history of disability representation, including the tin soldier and lame Oedipus, Montaigne's "infinities of forms" and Nietzsche's "higher men," the performance history of Shakespeare's Richard III, Melville's Captain Ahab, the small town grotesques of Sherwood Anderson's Winesburg, Ohio and Katherine Dunn's self-induced freaks in Geek Love. This volume brings together for the first time a collection of studies devoted to missionary language learning and retention. Introductory chapters provide historical perspectives on this population and on language teaching philosophy and practice in the LDS tradition. The empirical studies which follow are divided into two sections, the first examining mission language acquisition by English-speaking missionaries abroad, the second focusing on post-mission language attrition. These chapters by internationally known scholars offer cutting-edge research using a number of different target languages in addressing various issues in second language development. Finally, a comprehensive bibliography of sources on mission languages is included. The readership of this pioneering work is expected to extend beyond specialists in study abroad and missionary language training to a broader audience of applied linguists, educators, and students interested in language acquisition and attrition. In addition, the book offers useful insights to adults who want to maintain a second language.

Monsieur Linh and His Child A&C Black
This collective volume contains studies in the field of ancient grammar, poetics and philosophy of language. The contributions, written by specialists in the field, focus on central themes in the historiography of ancient linguistics, such as the status of grammar as a discipline in Antiquity, the relationship between poetics and grammatical theory, the constitution and development of the word class system, the descriptive format of grammars, the nature and description of specific word classes, the development of grammatical argumentation. In addition, several methodological issues in the study of ancient grammar and philosophy of language are dealt with: the problem of continuity vs. discontinuity in the history of linguistic thought, the role of schoolroom activities in the development of grammatical description and theory-formation, and problems concerning "tradition", "influence" and "originality" in ancient linguistics. The volume is rounded off with extensive indices of proper names, concepts and technical terms.

Mit dem 2016 in Essen durchgeführten Kongress erreichte die 2009 in Salamanca gegründete deutsch-iberische Tagungsreihe "Contrastivica" ihre vierte Auflage. Das Thema der Tagung lautete "Kontrastive Pragmatik und ihre Vermittlung: Deutsch, Spanisch und Portugiesisch im Vergleich" und fokussierte damit einen für die kulturellen, politischen und wirtschaftlichen Beziehungen zwischen den deutschsprachigen Ländern und der iberischen Halbinsel besonders wichtigen Bereich der Kommunikation: Die linguistische Pragmatik untersucht "Sprache als Handeln" in bestimmten Kontexten. In Hinblick auf die transkulturelle Kommunikation ist es essentiell, Übereinstimmungen und Differenzen in der Pragmatik wissenschaftlich zu erkennen, zu vermitteln und in der Praxis anzuwenden, um zu einer funktionierenden Kommunikation möglichst ohne Missverständnisse zu gelangen. Im Rahmen der Tagung wurden sowohl die linguistischen Grundlagen als auch die didaktischen Implikationen für die Fremdsprachenvermittlung an Schulen, Hochschulen und in der Erwachsenenbildung untersucht.
