السيرة النبوية بالفرنسية La vie du prophete

Les Éditions du Net

Une autobiographie, mais pas des « mémoires » classiques. Alexander Khodakov a participé à la construction de l'Histoire, avec un grand H. Mais ce qu'il nous livre ici, c'est la petite histoire, la vie quotidienne qui se déroule dans les coulisses du luxe et de la pleine lumière de la diplomatie. Aventures, situations insolites et souvent farfelues, il a vécu mille vies en une. De Moscou à l'Algérie, au Gabon, au Congo, au Zaïre, aux États-Unis, en Europe, dans tous les lieux de la planète où s'est dessiné l'avenir de notre monde. Il déteste le protocole, mais doit se conformer aux mœurs et coutumes de la diplomatie et de la haute société. Dans l'ombre de ce monde brillant et lisse, il nous rappelle avec un humour désenchanté que les artisans de notre Histoire sont des femmes et des hommes, avec leur grandeur, leurs petites choses, leur courage et leurs lâchetés. La panoplie de la condition humaine est là, avec le meilleur et le pire, et il nous la montre, avec le sourire...

Birkhäuser
Hélène, étudiante française, à la recherche de documentation pour une thèse qu'elle prépare sur les rapports entre l'Islam et l'Eglise byzantine, s'égaré dans les montagnes libanaises en territoire druze. De sa rencontre imprévue avec un haut dignitaire druze, son destin va basculer. Le cheik Abou Taoufik va lui ouvrir les portes de cette communauté réputée secrète et l'investir d'une mission cruciale : remonter aux sources de la doctrine druze pour y débusquer un insaisissable érudit, " un clandestin de l'histoire ". La traque d'une vie n'a pas permis au grand cheik druze de déjouer l'habileté de ce savant à effacer son existence de la mémoire des hommes. Si l'existence de ce personnage était démontrée, c'est l'une des pages les plus brillantes de la civilisation musulmane qui serait à réécrire. C'est le début d'une longue aventure intellectuelle et passionnelle. A travers interrogatoires, recherches, consultations d'archives anciennes, Hélène va mettre au jour l'existence et l'itinéraire d'un personnage exceptionnel, quant à ses origines, son destin, sa mission. Il s'agit de Bagdadi, dit Le Gaucher, et de son véritable nom, Ibn Kaaniche. Scientifique de premier plan, éminence grise du calife Al Hakim, ce fantôme serait à l'origine de la doctrine druze. A la suite d'Hélène, on voyage dans le temps et l'espace, on pénètre à la cour du terrible calife Al Hakim connu pour ses frasques impériales et on entre dans l'univers fastueux des Fatimides du onzième siècle, l'âge d'or de la civilisation musulmane.

Dans les centres de santé publics d'Afrique de l'Ouest, les malades sont trop souvent mal reçus, mal traités et mal soignés par les personnels de santé. C'est ce que démontre de façon irrécusable cet ouvrage. Pour la première fois, un tel constat est fait publiquement sur une base empirique solide, sans complaisance mais aussi sans polémique. Bien que depuis une trentaine d'années, les réformes des systèmes de santé et les formations destinées aux soignants se soient succédées, l'insatisfaction des populations reste grande.

Normativity and Diversity in Family Law BRILL

Depuis les soulèvements du Printemps arabe en 2011, les changements politiques au Maroc et le Hirak en Algérie, le Maghreb redevient un territoire géopolitique animé par plusieurs défis. Dans des sociétés encore tiraillées entre un conservatisme tourné vers la sauvegarde des valeurs traditionnelles et une logique progressiste, les questions relatives aux droits des femmes refont surface pour devenir un enjeu politique et social important. Inquiètes pour leurs fragiles acquis, les femmes, parfaitement émancipées par le travail et les études, s'activent pour installer des rapports plus égalitaires entre le féminin et le masculin en matière de droits. Au cœur de ce combat pour l'égalité, la création littéraire des autrices du xxième siècle semble à même de rendre compte de ce bouillonnement. Résolument tournés vers la modernité et en rupture avec un système patriarcal discriminant, les nouveaux personnages féminins dans la fiction maghrébine contemporaine, par leurs discours et à travers leurs manières d'agir, ébranlent les stéréotypes. Les romans d'Emna Belhaj Yahia, Sonia Chamkhi, Bahaa Trabelsi, Maïssa Bey, Malika Mokeddem et Halima Hamdane décrivent un monde en convulsion qui annonce une possible et durable révolution pour des femmes debout contre la fatalité.

La Chambre des illusions Walter de Gruyter GmbH & Co KG
 Kenneth Perkins's second edition of A History of Modern Tunisia carries the history of this country from 2004 to the present, with particular emphasis on the Tunisian revolution of 2011 - the first critical event of that year's Arab Spring and the inspiration for similar populist movements across the Arab world. After providing an overview of the country in the years preceding the inauguration of a French protectorate in 1881, the book examines the impact of colonialism on the country, with particular attention to the evolution of a nationalist movement that secured the termination of the protectorate in 1956. Its analysis of the first three decades of independence, during which the leaders of the anticolonial struggle consolidated political power, assesses the challenges that they faced and the degree of success they achieved. No other English-language study of Tunisia offers as sweeping a time frame or as comprehensive a history of this nation.

La Cuisine diplomatique Iggybook
 This collection discusses how official legal systems do and should respond to the reality of a plurality of family types and origins within their jurisdictions. It further examines the challenges that arise for practitioners, including lawyers and judges, when faced with such plurality. Focussing on empirical research, the volume presents legal and sociological data of unprecedented comparative depth. It also includes a discussion of how members of minority families respond to the need to organise their legal relationships, and to resolve their disputes in the shadow of official legal systems which differ from those of their familial and communal traditions. The work invites reflection, and demonstrates the urgency and complexity of the questions regarding the search for justice in the field of family life in Europe today.

Halima KARTHALA Editions
 With regard to family law, this volume examines claims based on cultural tradition, ethnic background, custom, religious affiliation and sexual orientation, as well as various other "claims" that are not officially recognized in state law, in 15 jurisdictions around the world. The country reports seek to determine whether these claims represent a challenge to family law as conceived by the state, and if so, how these challenges are being managed. The focus lies on the interaction between (i) claims and traditions raising minority-related and diversity-related issues and (ii) the state as the addressee of these demands for accommodation. The reports identify specific instances and situations that have proven (and in many cases still are) particularly difficult to resolve. They force decision-makers to engage in a delicate balancing act between different, often clashing interests.

Historical Dictionary of Sufism BoD - Books on Demand

This book contains selected contributions presented during the workshop "Establishing Filiation: Towards a Social Definition of the Family in Islamic and Middle Eastern Law?", which was convened in Beirut, Lebanon in November 2017. Filiation is a multifaceted concept in Muslim jurisdictions. Beyond its legal aspect, it encompasses the notion of inclusion and belonging, thereby holding significant social implications. Being the child of someone, carrying one's father's name, and inheriting from both parents form important pillars of personal identity. This volume explores filiation (nasab) and alternative forms of a full parent-child relationship in Muslim jurisdictions. Eleven country reports ranging from Morocco to Malaysia examine how maternal and paternal filiation is established – be it by operation of the law, by the parties’ exercise of autonomy, such as acknowledgement, or by scientific means, DNA testing in particular – and how lawmakers, courts, and society at large view and treat children who fall outside those legal structures, especially children born out of wedlock or under dubious circumstances. In a second step, alternative care schemes in place for the protection of parentless children are examined and their potential to recreate a legal parent-child relationship is discussed. In addition to the country-specific analyses included in this book, three further contributions explore the subject matter from perspectives of premodern Sunni legal doctrine, premodern Shiite legal doctrine and the private international law regimes of contemporary Arab countries. Finally, a comparative analysis of the themes explored is presented in the synopsis at the end of this volume. The book is aimed at scholars in the fields of Muslim family law and comparative family law and is of high practical relevance to legal practitioners working in the area of international child law. Nadjma Yassari is Leader of the Research Group “Changes in God’s Law: An Inner-Islamic Comparison of Family and Succession Law” at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative and International Private Law while Lena-Maria Möller is a Senior Research Fellow at the Max Planck Institute and a member of the same Research Group. Personal status laws remain a highly politicized area of debate in the Middle East, as the arena in which the contentious issues of women's rights, religion and minority groups meet. This is especially so when it comes to divorce. In Tunisia, with the moderate Islamist party Ennahda winning the first elections following the 2011 revolution, questions of religion in public life have gained greater primacy. The country is often hailed for its progressive personal status code, seen as an exception to the practice in many other Muslim countries. Polygamy is banned, for example, and in divorce cases there is gender equality. However, Tunisia's legal system contains many gaps and leaves much room for interpretation. Bearing in mind this importance of the role of Islam in judicial courts, Maaike Voorhoeve investigates whether the more progressive, and ostensibly secular, principles enshrined in Tunisia's Personal Status Code of 1956 are in fact adhered to in divorce cases. And if not, whether judges frequently turn to the Sharia, custom or societal norms as their primary sources of guidance. Through extensive research in the Tunisian courts, Voorhoeve investigates the different types of divorce, the arguments presented to the court and the consequent legal decisions made. She focuses on the role of female judges, testing the assumption that they adjudicate in a more gender-neutral way and examining the impact they have had on Tunisian legal culture and through this, Tunisian society. Gender and Divorce Law in North Africa therefore sheds light on the wide-reaching debate throughout North Africa and the Middle East concerning the role of Islam and Sharia in the public, political, legal and private spheres. This debate, which often pits secularists against Islamists, but is in reality much more nuanced, is key in a variety of fields, including Middle East studies and Islamic law.

This is a pioneering book about the impact that knowledge produced in the Maghrib (Islamic North Africa and al-Andalus = Muslim Iberia) had on the rest of the Islamic world. It presents results achieved in the Research Project "Local contexts and global dynamics: al-Andalus and the Maghrib in the Islamic East (AMOI)", funded by the Spanish Ministry of Science, Innovation and Universities (FFI2016-78878-R AEI/FEDER, UE) and directed by Maribel Fierro and Mayte Penelas. The book contains 18 contributions written by senior and junior scholars from different institutions all over the world. It is divided into five sections dealing with how knowledge produced in the Maghrib was integrated in the Mashriq starting with the emergence and construction of the concept 'Maghrib' (sections 1 and 2); how travel allowed the reception in the Maghrib of knowledge produced in the Mashriq but also the transmission of locally produced knowledge outside the Maghrib, and the different ways in which such transmission took place (sections 3 and 4), and how the Maghribis who stayed or settled in the Mashriq manifested their identity (section 5). The book will be of interest not only for those whose research concentrates on the Maghrib but more generally for those who want to understand the complex and shifting dynamics between 'centres' and 'peripheries' as regards intellectual production and circulation.

Family, Religion and Law Al Manhal

El present llibre d'educació emocional, narra les emocions viscudes per una noia marroquina de nou anys d'edat, -la Halima-, en arribar a un petit poble de Catalunya. En aquesta història es destaquen valors com la inclusió, l'amistat, el respecte, l'empatia, la tolerància, la solidaritat, la justícia, la responsabilitat, l'acceptació, l'autoestima... també ens mostra com les actituds fan de miralls; les actituds hostils d'uns vers els altres són retornades de la mateixa forma que han estat transmiseses, com un cercle viciós que cal trencar per millorar la convivència de tots. Està pensat, perquè més que una lectura, se'n faci una reflexió i una representació dels diferents rols que apareixen en el text. D'aquesta manera es dóna la possibilitat que la seva lectura sigui més experiencial, vivint les emocions en primera persona. Fomenta la capacitat d'empatia posant-se en la pell dels altres (què es pot sentir sota aquesta vivència?), ahora, convida als nois/es a reflexionar sobre les seves actituds desenvolupant/potenciant així la intel·ligència emocional. Posar-se un mocador al cap, un barret o qualsevol altra indumentària els ajudarà a sortir del seu "jo" i entrar en el personatge representat.

This book explores how European, particularly French, adventurers shaped early modern India. It highlights the significant contributions of these adventurers in social, political, economic, and intellectual life of north India in the 18th and the 19th centuries. The author examines how the French adventurers played a key role in bringing Western science and ideas to a polity in flux. He examines the role of individuals like René Madec, Sombre, De Boigne, Perron, Gentil, Canaple, Delamarr, Sonson, and Pedrose, who made instrumental contributions in modernising armies of pre-modern states in South Asia. The volume also underlines how French adventurers' commercial networks developing from their enterprises opened up markets in the heartlands of north India for European consumers. Further, it brings to the fore intellectual pursuits of the leading French figures such as Anquetil Duperron, Polier, Gentil, De Boigne, and Perron, whose engagement with Indian literature opened a new chapter framing studies of the Occident. Rich in French, English, and translated Persian archival resources, this book will be of interest to scholars and researchers of colonial history, early modern history, military history, and South Asian studies.
