Il Drago, Il Sole E La Pantera John Benjamins Publishing

This volume presents a theoretical and practical model for analysing epistemic stance in dialogues, i.e. the positions both epistemic (commitment) and evidential (source of information) which speakers take in the here and now of communication with regard to the information they are conveying and which they express through lexical and morphosyntactic means. According to the results of our studies of different types of corpora, these positions can be reduced to three basic ones: Knowing, Unknowing, Believing (KUB). In the first part of the book, we present the KUB model and its psychological and linguistic backgrounds. In the second part, we provide an exemplary application of the model, by presenting the qualitative and quantitative analysis of dialogues belonging to different genres and contexts. The volume is addressed to scholars concerned with the topical issues from a theoretical and analytical perspective.

This book explores the meanings of educational interactions which aim to promote peace and positive relationships. This analysis is based on theories of communication and active participation in education systems, in particular in intercultural settings. The book investigates the cultural presuppositions of dialogues which can empower participants expressions in interactions through the management of discussions and conflicts. These presuppositions are observed in the use of language in participants narratives and interactions. The book draws on the fine-grained analysis of a large corpus of questionnaires, interviews and videotaped interactions collected in 12 camps promoted by CISV (Children s International Summer Villages), an international organisation which is active in 70 countries. The analysis encompasses both organisational meetings and educational activities involving adults, children and adolescents of several nationalities, and shows the importance of the different ways in which the adults who coordinate these meetings and activities act and use language. These different ways of acting in interactions can promote both empowering dialogues and disempowering monologues, with important consequences for the fulfilment of educational purposes. For its contents, theoretical framework and methodology, the book may be of interest for educators, teachers, experts in mediation, scholars and students in cultural sociology, sociolinguistics, communication studies, discourse studies and dialogue studies."

"Entrambi a petto nudo, si preparavano al rituale della rasata; Rabbo aveva appoggiato il rasoio elettrico sulla parte sinistra del cranio di Davs, che continuava a ripetere 'mi raccomando, non tagliarmi la cresta! Non toccarmi i dreads'. Lei li guardava, così belli e stupendamente asociali, così unici nella loro diversità.

Scarti. Rifiuti. Emarginati senza domani. Ma in quel presente erano così perfetti" Deb, Dava e Rabbo. Un filo che intreccia le loro vite, tra amicizia, amore, controcultura, ideali e utopie. Un filo che si annoda, si spezza, si riallaccia. Che attraversa storie semplici ma venate di disagio e sofferenza. SICK HEART, romanzo breve ed autobiografico dell'autrice, si conclude con un racconto (LA CINQUECENTO GIALLA), sorta di epilogo annaspante tra i chiaroscuri della narratrice. Una prosa a tratti irriverente, ironica, introspettiva, che accosta temi "comuni", quali amicizia e sentimenti, a temi forti e violenti (droga, ideologia punk...) . "Questo è il punk, è la voglia di non essere nessuno e di trovare in ogni piccolo niente la più grande ricchezza, la più struggente delle bellezze" Monitore Zoologico Italiano Lulu.com Whether you are planning a romantic Italian getaway, packing a knapsack for your junior year abroad, or just want to engage your Italian business associate in everyday conversation, Italian Made Simple is the perfect book for any self-learner. Un posto nel mondo. Donne e migranti e pratiche di scrittura Routledge Poet, novelist, dramatist, polemicist, and filmmaker Pier Paolo Pasolini continues to be one of the most influential intellectuals of post-war Italy. In Pasolini: The Sacred Flesh, Stefania Benini examines his corporeal vision of the sacred, focusing on his immanent interpretation of the Christian doctrine of the Incarnation and the "sacred flesh" of Christ in both Passion and Death as the subproletarian flesh of the outcast at the margins of capitalism. By investigating the many crucifixions within Pasolini's poems, novels, films, cinematic scripts and treatments, as well as his subversive hagiographies of criminal or crazed saints, Benini illuminates the radical politics embedded within Pasolini's adoption of Christian themes. Drawing on the work of theorists such as Ernesto De Martino, Mircea Eliade, Jean-Luc Nancy, Alain Badiou, Giorgio Agamben, and Slavoj Žižek, she shows how Pasolini's meditation on the disappearance of the sacred in our times and its return as a haunting revenant, a threatening disruption of capitalist society, foreshadows current debates on the status of the sacred in our postmodern world.

In a translocal approach, Angelika Dietz deals with the question of migration and belonging under biographical, spatial, cultural and social viewpoints. Despite a long migration history of Italians in Northern Ireland, special emphasis has been placed on contemporary life stories of ten Italians and their social relations and to the network of multiple places that they have constructed.

Come possiamo applicare le nostre conoscenze psicologiche e spirituali alla nostra vita di tutti i giorni? È questa la domanda che Hunter Beaumont si è posto per molti anni e alla quale ha dato risposta in questo libro. Toccando temi diversi – il rapporto fra figli e genitori, le difficoltà sentimentali, il femminile e il maschile, la malattia e la morte – egli mostra come la vera soluzione ai problemi che incontriamo nella nostra vita provenga sempre dal contatto con l’anima e dalla capacità di ascoltare le verità essenziali che essa ha da offrirci. Quando parla di anima, Beaumont non si riferisce a nulla di vago o misticheggiante, ma all’esperienza vivida e concreta che abbiamo quando il Sé, la parte più profonda e reale del nostro essere, ha la possibilità di esprimersi e di parlarci.

Il tempo dei giovani, ristampa della ricerca promossa dallo IARD, é una ricerca sui giovani, ma é una ricerca, per un aspetto importante, diversa dalle tante che sono state svolte su questo oggetto. Essa assume infatti il modo di porsi di fronte al tempo come ottica privilegiata per esplorare la condizione giovanile. L'idea di condurre una ricerca adottando questa ottica é nata da una certa sensazione di riduttività che le ricerche sui giovani prodotte negli ultimi anni tendono a suscitare. Si sanno molte cose sui rapporti tra giovani e lavoro, sugli atteggiamenti dei giovani nei confronti della politica, sui loro rapporti con la famiglia e con la scuola, sui modi con cui usano il tempo libero, sui loro consumi. Ma la sensazione di riduttività nasce dal fatto che la condizione giovanile e comunque qualcosa di più della somma dei suoi singoli aspetti e che trascurando questo elemento aggiuntivo e unificante si perde qualcosa di sostanziale. Si avverte che il nocciolo della questione giovanile consiste nel fatto di presentarsi nei termini di una sindrome globale che non si lascia ridurre ai singoli aspetti del rapporto tra giovani e società considerati uno alla volta. Si presume, cioè, l'esistenza di un momento unificante che sembra attraversare trasversalmente i vari aspetti e conferire ad essi una fisionomia particolare.

A Gemstone in the Rock Logoreci

Milan was one of the largest and most important cities in Renaissance Italy. Controlled by the Visconti and Sforza dynasties from 1277 until 1500, its rulers were generous patrons of the arts, responsible for commissioning major monuments throughout the city and for supporting artists such as Giovanni di Balduccio, Filarete, Bramante and Leonardo da Vinci. But the city was much more than its dukes. Milan had a distinct civic identity, one that was expressed, above all, through its neighbourhood, religious and charitable associations. This book moves beyond standard interpretations of ducal patronage to explore the often overlooked city itself, showing how the allegiances of the town hall and the parish related to those of the servants and aristocrats who frequented the Visconti and Sforza court. In this original and stimulating interdisciplinary study, Evelyn Welch illustrates the ways in which the myths of Visconti and Sforza supremacy were created. Newly discovered material for major projects such as the cathedral, hospital and castle of Milan permits a greater understanding of the political, economic and architectural forces that shaped these extraordinary buildings. The book also explores the wider social networks of the artists themselves. Leonardo da Vinci, for example, is de-mythologised: far from being an isolated, highly prized court artist, he spent his almost eighteen years in the city working within the wider Milanese community of painters, sculptors, goldsmiths and embroiderers. The broad perspective of the book ensures that any future study of the Renaissance will have to re-evaluate the place of Milan in Italian cultural history.

L'intreccio tra la migrazione in Italia e la pratica della scrittura letteraria in lingua italiana accomuna le donne le cui storie, raccolte in lunghe interviste biografiche, sono presentate e analizzate in questo volume. La migrazione può configurarsi come esperienza di sradicamento e di solitudine, anche in ragione delle forme di esclusione attive nella società d'approdo. Ma la pratica della scrittura, nella nuova lingua, può essere strumento attraverso il quale costruire nuove appartenenze e sentire di poter avere, ancora, «un posto nel mondo», come afferma una delle donne intervistate. Le biografie raccolte mettono in crisi l'immaginario egemonico sulle "donne migranti", popolato da stereotipi in cui si intersecano assunti razzisti, sessisti ed eurocentrici. L'esperienza della scrittura in migrazione viene interpretata e discussa come una pratica di soggettivazione, una pratica cioè attraverso la quale le donne migranti cessano di essere soggetti narrati e si rendono soggetti narranti, potendo così contribuire a ri-nominare e ri-significare i processi di costruzione e reificazione dell'alterità. «Questo è un libro in cui la sociologia è vivente. Promuove e articola la percezione di uno scarto fra le esperienze di chi questo mondo lo abita e i modi in cui le narrazioni più correnti le deformano. Promuove e articola curiosità e critica. È un libro molto bello. Io spero che lo leggano in tanti». Dalla Prefazione di Paolo Jedlowski

 The emergence of cinema as a predominant form of mass entertainment in the 1910s inspired intellectuals to rethink their definitions of art. The Great Black Spider on Its Knock-Kneed Tripod traces the encounter of Italy's writers with cinema, and in doing so offers vibrant new perspectives on the country's early twentieth-century culture. This comparative study focuses on the immediate responses to this cultural phenomenon of three highly influential intellectuals, each with a competing aesthetic vision □ Filippo Tommaso Marinetti, founder of Futurism; Gabriele D'Annunzio, leader of Italian Decadentism; and Luigi Pirandello, a father of modern European theatre and theorist of humour. Along with demonstrating how the popularization of the feature-length narrative influenced each author's outlook and theories, Michael Syrimis unravels the extent to which cinema enforced or neutralized the ideological and aesthetic differences between them.
