STEPHENSON HODGESLes Annales politiques et littéraires

Indiana University Press

Presents a collection of sixteen African folktales by poet, novelist, critic, and statesman, Bernard Binlin Dadie that represents the oral tradition of his native Ivory Coast.

Dictionary of African Biography

FeniXX

An exploration of African literary production in France and its socio-economic implications.

The African Book Publishing Record U of Minnesota Press

This unique book examines the career of Michel Ocelot, from his earliest works to his latest research and productions, including an interview regarding his latest film Le Pharaon, le Sauvage et la Princesse (2022). The book highlights the director's role in the panorama of contemporary animated cinema and his relationship with the tradition, both artistic and cinematographic. The book carefully analyses the ethical and social nature of Ocelot's work to underscore the duality of the director's oeuvre, both artistic and social, using an interdisciplinary approach that blends film and aesthetic criticism with gender studies and decolonial thought.

Particular attention will be given to the themes of multiculturalism, discrimination, and treatment of women, which are at the centre of many current cultural debates. The book will be of interest to an audience of experts, animation enthusiasts, and film scholars, as well as to a wider readership interested in learning about the poetics of Kirikou's father.

Ethnomathématique en Afrique noire, depuis le temps de la colonie jusqu'à la plus ancienne découverte mathématique : le b[aton d'Ishango. Indiana University Press

Although African literatures in English and French are widely known outside Africa, those in the African languages themselves have not received comparable attention. In this book a number have been selected for survey by fourteen specialist writers, providing the reader with an introduction to this very wide field and a body of reference material which includes extensive bibliographies and biographical information on African authors.

Theoretical issues such as genre divisions are discussed in the essays and the historical, social and political forces at work in the creation and reception of African literature are examined.

Literature is treated as an art whose medium is language, so that both the oral and written forms are encompassed. This book will be of value not only to readers concerned with the cultures of Africa but to all those with an interest in the literary phenomena of the world in general.

The Review of Reviews Cambridge University Press

L'"offensive chinoise " en Afrique est devenue ces dernières années un sujet de première importance. Ce dossier vise à donner une épaisseur humaine et sociale aux nouveaux échanges sud-sud souvent réduits à une lecture en termes géostratégiques et macro-économiques. Il fait la part belle aux acteurs multiples de cette " autre " globalisation, à leurs pratiques et à leurs stratégies multiformes. Il s'agit de sortir du tête-à-tête entre Pékin et l'Afrique pour élargir l'analyse aux autres Suds (Inde, Brésil, Corée du sud, etc.) Et, simultanément, d'examiner l'impact de ces mobilisations transnationales sur les rapports de force politique et économique au niveau mondial. L'objet de ce volume est donc d'appréhender, dans un cadre plus large et plus concret que de coutume, les transformations des relations sud-sud contemporaines mais aussi les représentations et les imaginaires afférents. In fine, ce sont les manières de penser l'autre et sa relation au monde qui sont en jeu dans cette globalisation par les Suds.

Literary production is increasingly shaped by globalization and the complex nature of cultural, political, and social interaction. As such, longstanding colonial and postcolonial relations between Africa and Europe have yielded a range of challenging questions, and new generations of writers with roots in Africa have invariably found themselves navigating new geographic terrains and negotiating racialized identities, while simultaneously exploring the potential of literature in addressing the...

Les vingt-quatre contes de ce recueil ont été recueillis il y a près de cent trente ans au sud du Mozambique et dans ce qui est devenu la province sud-africaine du Transvaal. Le livre est divisé en quatre parties : (1) les contes d'animaux (où l'on voit toute une petite faune aux prises avec beaucoup plus gros qu'elle) ; (2) la sagesse des petits : les plus faibles des humains, par leur intelligence ou par le secours surnaturel qu'ils savent obtenir, triomphent de la condition humiliante dans laquelle ils étaient maintenus ; (3) les contes d'ogres : ces personnages monstrueux sont parfois difformes, parfois mangeurs d'hommes, mais toujours effrayants ; (4) les contes moraux mettent en scène des personnages qui refusent de se plier aux règles de la société, faites de respect pour l'autorité parentale, notamment, et qui apprennent leurs torts à leurs dépens. Le conte du Petit Détesté, l'un des plus longs, nous fait voir un homme, marié à plusieurs épouses qui, à sa grande satisfaction, lui mettaient au monde des souris ; sauf l'une qui n'accouchait pas : on la méprisait et on lui jetait de la cendre. Sur les conseils de la Colombe, elle s'entaille le genou et y introduit un pois, qui deviendra un véritable enfant. Sa mère est obligée de le confier à l'Hippopotame, qui l'emmène avec lui dans le fleuve...

This 1976 book provides both a historical survey and a critical analysis of the literature in French from West and Equatorial Africa. Professor Blair begins by discussing the social, educational and political influences which led to the formation of the Negritude movement and to a flowering of French-African creative writing. This historical approach is then complemented by a study of the different literary genres. She traces the evolution of the first manifestations of literary activity in French by African writers, the written folk-tale, fable and short story, from the oral tradition of the indigenous culture, and the eventual appearance of the novel with a legendary or historical theme. The origins of French-African drama are considered for the first time, and the work of the minor poets analysed. Finally, Professor Blair attempts a definition of the French-African novel, and studies examples from three major periods from the 1930s onwards.

Out of French-speaking Africa, from Togo, Chad, C-te d'Ivoire, Cameroon, Guinea, Congo, Rwanda, Djibouti, and Madagascar, comes the polyphony of new voices aired in this volume. The collection brings together fourteen important contemporary authors with roots in sub-Saharan French Africa and Madagascar, a new generation now living in France or the United States, and introduces their remarkable work to readers of English. These writers' stories, unlike earlier African literature, seldom resemble traditional folk tales. Instead they are concerned with the postindependence world and reveal in their rich and complex depths the influence of modern European and American short-story traditions as well as the enduring reach of African myths and legends. This gathering of gifted writers tenders modern versions of myths; nostalgia for childhood in Africa; relations between the sexes in contemporary Africa; continuing political problems; and the life of the African diaspora in France?all related in new and familiar ways, in innovative and traditional forms. Their work, most of it little known outside France and their native African countries, revises our understanding of the lingering effects of colonization even as it celebrates the complexity, exuberance, and tenacity of African culture.

From the Pharaohs to Fanon, Dictionary of African Biography provides a comprehensive overview of the lives of the men and women who shaped Africa's history. Unprecedented in scale, DAB covers the whole continent from Tunisia to South Africa, from Sierra Leone to Somalia. It also encompasses the full scope of history from Queen Hatsheput of Egypt (1490-1468 BC) and Hannibal, the military commander and strategist of Carthage (243-183 BC), to Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana (1909-1972), Miriam Makeba and Nelson Mandela of South Africa (1918 -).
