Innovative Marketing: 30 types of Marketing for Small & Medium Enterprises Routledge

To remain relevant, management education must reflect the realities that influence its subject matter, management, while at the same time addressing societal needs and expectations. Faced by powerful drivers of change, many of which are amplified by the immense turbulence that has characterized the time since the outbreak of the global Covid-19 pandemic in early 2020, an assessment of where management education stands and where it is going is timely. This book brings together management education scholars, practitioners, and stakeholders to identify trends and to critically analyse key challenges from their respective perspectives. They consider the requirements for providing relevant management education in the future and explore changes and opportunities around themes such as responsibility, sustainability, innovation, competitive strategy, and technological change. The different perspectives of the authors contribute distinct insights and form a fascinating kaleidoscope of reflections on the presence and predictions and prescriptions for the future of management education. The result is a comprehensive volume that will be essential reading for scholars and administrators committed to the growth and development of management education. It also will be of keen interest to management educators as well as management learners who will shape and be shaped by the management education of the future.

Building a workplace that is satisfying and a go-to haven for its employees is considered a Utopian concept. We come across many professionals almost every day, who have long narratives on how discontented they are with the kind of jobs they do, or the pay they draw. This makes us wonder if an organisation can ever meet an employee's expectations. Do managers always fail to align their goals with their subordinates' aspirations? For those wanting answers to these questions Match the Age to Keep them Engaged is a must-read..Dr Deepak Malhotra employs his out-of-the-box thinking and innovative techniques to create unique engagement interventions, which would irrefutably prove fruitful in any organizational setup, and would be a handy tool for HR professionals and managers. The author explains the concept of disengagement of employees due to prominent generation gaps, and the techniques he suggests to bridge those gaps would certainly enable any organisation to foster better employee inter- relationships, thereby creating an engaged workforce. Dr Malhotra brings forth a bird's eye view on engagement and its dynamics, and explains concepts through many of his own personal experiences and anecdotes, which are relatable and confer a real-world perspective. If you are looking to go on an engagement drive for your employees, Match the Age to Keep them Engaged is what you surely need.

How was IIMA born? Who were the key players? What has made it synonymous to success? These questions become even more relevant as the Indian Institute of Management Ahmedabad (IIMA) marks its Golden Jubilee year in 2011. Established in 1961, IIMA is the first Indian business school to achieve international recognition. In 2002, Economist Intelligence Unit's list declared IIMA as the most selective management school in the world. And in 2011, IIMA has been ranked number 7 in Financial Times (FT)'s global ranking of Masters in Management Programme. In this well researched and timely book, Prafull Anubhai charts the journey of this premier institution from its inception to what is it today—the construction of its iconic campus by American architect Louis Kahn, policies and processes that set the benchmark, exemplary leadership exhibited by its various chairmen and directors, and the vision and future challenges for the institute. In The IIMA Story, Prafull weaves all the threads together to present a vivid history of one of India's greatest pride that has shaped the lives of many individuals through generations.
